An evolving industry

The year ended 30 June 2013 proved to be a year for significant change in the superannuation industry. A large quantity of legislative change was introduced so as to streamline the administration of superannuation benefits as well as to strengthen the Prudential requirements that Trustees will be subjected to in the years ahead.

Some key changes have come into effect and some continue to be refined and implemented with Industry and Government consultation. This changing superannuation landscape provides members with more visibility and confidence in how their money is invested and provides a stronger more robust superannuation system.

Some of the key changes from 1 July 2013 include:

- An increase in the legislated superannuation guarantee to 9.25%.
- An increase in the concessional contributions limit to $35,000 for members who will be turning age 60 in the 2013/2014 year. This will enable affected members to make larger employer and salary sacrificed contributions to their superannuation before an additional tax impost applies. The concessional contributions limit for members under the age of 60 remains at $25,000 for the 2013/2014 year.
- Members over the age of 70 years will now also be able to receive superannuation guarantee contributions from their employer regardless of their age.
- Streamlining of administration to enable more efficient and timely processing of rollovers throughout the superannuation industry. This and other changes will make it easier for members to consolidate small accounts to minimise the fees that they may be subjected to by having multiple superannuation accounts.

The Trustee continues to look with confidence toward the raft of changes that continue to be implemented in the superannuation industry with the goal of re-enforcing the ambition of superannuation clients to achieve their desired retirement outcome.

Allocation of Earnings

The net earnings of members participating in the Greater Rollover Fund is based on the calculation of interest on a daily basis which is credited (after tax) to members' accounts quarterly.

There are no reserves maintained in the Fund.

Some further information about the allocation of returns to member accounts is shown in your annual Member Statement.

Derivatives policy

The Greater Rollover Fund does not invest in any derivative investments. It is the Trustee's policy not to use derivative instruments directly.

WHAT HAPPENS IF YOUR ACCOUNT BECOMES INACTIVE?

Eligible Rollover Fund (ERF)

Subject to any requirement on the Trustee to transfer lost accounts to the Tax Office in certain circumstances, if we have not received contributions or rollover amounts into your accumulation account for a period of 5 years or more we may transfer your benefit to our nominated Eligible Rollover Fund (ERF) – Colonial SuperTrace. The Trustee also reserves the right to transfer benefits to an ERF in any other circumstances that it considers appropriate (for example, small accounts) under broad powers conferred on superannuation trustees under superannuation legislation.

Colonial SuperTrace is required to help protect member balances from being eroded by direct administration fees (called ‘member protection’). The member protection rules do not extend to indirect fees (deducted from assets or earnings), taxes or insurance premiums and are subject to special arrangements where a negative investment period occurs.

Its contact details are:

Colonial SuperTrace
Locked Bag 5429
Parramatta NSW 2124
Telephone: 1300 788 750
Facsimile: 1300 700 353

Being transferred to an ERF may affect your benefits because:

- You will cease to be a member of the CUBS Superannuation Fund and any insurance you may have will be affected.
- You will become a member of Colonial SuperTrace and be subject to its governing rules.

Where we have your current address, we will advise you of any transfer.

The trustee of Colonial Supertrace is Colonial Mutual Superannuation Pty Ltd (ACN 006 831 983).

LEGISLATION CHANGES

The following changes have been made:

- As at 1 July 2012, the $25,000 concessional contributions cap applied to all individuals. An increased concessional contributions cap of $35,000 applies for the 2013-14 year for individuals aged 60 or over. Individuals aged 50 and over will be able to access the higher cap of $35,000 from 1 July 2014.
- The superannuation guarantee (SG) contribution rate has increased from 9% to 9.25% from 1 July 2013. The SG contribution rate will gradually increase to 12% between 1 July 2013 and 1 July 2019. The Federal Government has announced a pause to the SG contribution rate increase for 2 years (until 1 July 2016), this has not yet become law.
- From 1 July 2013, the SG age limit of 70 has been removed and employers are required to contribute to complying super funds of eligible mature aged employees.
- The lump sum tax free threshold for eligible superannuation benefit payments for the 2012/13 financial year was $175,000 and will increase to $180,000 for the 2013/14 financial year.
- The definition of lost member has been amended according to the following:
  - the account balance threshold for inactive accounts, and accounts where members cannot be contacted, is increasing from $200 to $2,000 (small lost member accounts); and
  - the period of inactivity for accounts that cannot be identified reduces from five years to 12 months (insoluble lost member accounts).
- The Government recently repealed the member protection rule effective 1 July 2013. This means member's with small account balances will no longer be required to be protected against direct administration fees.
- The minimum annual pension payment amount required for account based was reduced by 25% for the 2012/2013 financial year. It has now returned to normal for the 2013/2014 financial year.
- Individuals with income greater than $300,000 will become subject to a higher rate of contributions tax in respect of concessional contributions made by or on their behalf (that is the concessional rate of tax will be increased from 15% to 30% (for concessional contributions within the concessional contributions limit)). The definition of 'income' for the purpose of this measure will include taxable income, concessional superannuation contributions, adjusted fringe benefits, total net investment loss, target foreign income, tax-free government pensions and benefits, less child support.
- Changes to the laws around excess contributions tax which apply from 1 July 2013 allow:
  - withdrawals from your super fund of any excess concessional contributions made from 1 July 2013
  - your excess concessional contributions to be taxed at your marginal tax rate rather than the top marginal tax rate
  - imposition of the excess concessional contributions charge

LEGISLATION CHANGES

- Changes to the Government co-contribution scheme, which provides low income earners with a matching contribution (subject to certain limits) for after tax personal contributions made by them to a superannuation fund:
  - The maximum co-contribution entitlement will be $500;
  - The matching rate to be reduced from 100% to 50%;
  - The lower income threshold (which provides access to the maximum co-contribution) will remain at $31,920 for the 2012-2013 financial year and $33,516 for the 2013/2014 financial year; and
  - The higher income threshold will be reduced from $61,920 to $46,920 for the 2012/2013 financial year and will be $48,516 for the 2013/2014 financial year.
- From 1 July 2012, the Government provides a low income superannuation contribution (LISC) of up to $500 annually for eligible individuals. The amount payable under this measure will be calculated by applying a 15 per cent matching rate to concessional contributions made by, or for individuals on adjusted taxable incomes of up to $37,000, with an annual maximum amount payable of $500 (not indexed). The amount will be paid into a superannuation account of the individual to directly boost their retirement savings. Concessional superannuation contributions made from 1 July 2012 will be eligible for the LISC. The first payments will be made in the 2013-14 income year.

Further information about the concessional contributions cap, SG contributions, lump sum tax threshold, definition of lost members and the Government's co-contribution eligibility criteria from year to year can be found at www.ato.gov.au. The following changes have been proposed (but are not yet law as at the date of preparation of this publication).

- The Government has a number of measures requiring automatic consolidation of certain accounts within superannuation fund (intra-fund consolidation) and between superannuation funds (inter-fund consolidation). Changes to legislation and regulations are currently being formulated to clarify the changes, for example, frequency and where accounts may be retained. These measures form part of the broader reforms referred to below, and build on changes to legislation that have already occurred which encourage consolidation of accounts through the use of tax file numbers. Also, it is anticipated that from January 2014, the ATO will facilitate the auto consolidation of accounts with low balances by providing details of these accounts to members' active funds. The information will be provided annually and will include details of lost accounts, accounts that have not received a contribution or rollover for two years with balances under $1,000 and accounts in eligible rollover funds. The ATO's role in facilitating auto consolidation of accounts will be supported by increased data collections by the ATO from superannuation funds about contributions and members (including lost members).

Updated information about Government proposals is available from www.ato.gov.au or on request from the Administrator. For information about the impact of tax related changes on your personal circumstances, consult an appropriately qualified financial or taxation adviser.

There are other significant reforms proposed for the superannuation industry (called the 'Stronger Super' reforms) which represent the

LEGISLATION CHANGES

Government's response to a review of the superannuation system during 2009/10. It has the broad aim of making the Australian superannuation system more transparent and efficient, and to help to maximise retirement income for Australians. Given the breadth of the Stronger Super reforms, legislation is being developed in several stages over years. The Trustee is monitoring these developments and will provide further information to you in due course, where relevant to your membership and/or entitlements in the fund.

General information about Stronger Super is available at the following Government website www.strongersuper.treasury.gov.au

INQUIRIES AND COMPLAINTS

| Email     | gbsl@financialsynergy.com.au |

If you are unhappy with the response to an enquiry, or have a complaint or dispute, you will generally be asked to place your question or problem in writing to the Trustee. The Trustee will endeavour to reach a satisfactory solution to your problem within 90 days of receiving the complaint and will advise you accordingly.

If a satisfactory solution is not achieved within 90 days, or you do not hear from us in this timeframe, you are able to take your complaint to the Superannuation Complaints Tribunal (SCT) by:

The Tribunal is an independent body set up by the Commonwealth Government to review trustee decisions relating to members (as opposed to trustee decisions relating to the management of the fund as a whole).

You must follow the procedure set out above. The SCT will only handle certain types of complaints and time limits apply for lodging some complaints. If the SCT accepts your complaint it will try to help you and the Trustee to reach a mutual agreement through conciliation. If this is not successful, the SCT will make a decision that is binding on all parties (subject to a limited right of appeal to the Courts).
